Zenken is a Japan-based company established in 1975, with a branch office in Bangalore, India. Zenken facilitates placement opportunities for students in Japanese companies.

Upon successful placement, selected students will relocate to Japan to begin their professional careers. Zenken acts as a facilitator between students and Japanese companies and does not guarantee job offers.

2. Role and Support Provided by Zenken

- Sharing information about employment opportunities and life in Japan
- Guidance on the interview process and preparation

In the event of withdrawal, non-participation, or rejection of the job offer at any stage without valid and justifiable reasons, there may arise a requirement for partial or full reimbursement of the costs incurred.

These costs may include (but are not limited to):

- Introductory fee
- Japanese language training expenses
- Administrative and coordination costs
- Visa processing and onboarding-related expenses

The exact amount and applicability of reimbursement will depend on the stage of withdrawal and the expenses incurred up to that point (amount will vary, ranging from 2-6 lakhs INR).
